

ADIENT

Since 2016, Jarbou Ronnisch Construction has partnered with Adient, a global leader in automotive seating and interior systems, to support a wide range of construction projects at its Plymouth campus. Serving as Construction Manager across multiple phases, our work has supported Adient's continued investment in research, engineering, and facility performance while maintaining operations within an active, mission-critical environment.

The scope of work spans office, lab, manufacturing, and infrastructure improvements across the campus, including construction management services for the 450,000-square-foot Adient CTU Building, MEP upgrades, interior buildouts, and numerous specialized lab and testing environments. Additional projects have included site work, parking structure improvements, façade repairs, office renovations, and ongoing facility upgrades, reflecting a long-standing partnership focused on supporting Adient's evolving research and workplace needs.
